

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH

Undergraduate research opportunities are available in many disciplines within the College of Arts and Sciences. Interested students should speak with faculty members in their major department. When selecting a faculty mentor for undergraduate research, students should consider their own research or creative project ideas, courses they have taken, as well as faculty research interests.